FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Snow removal to continue all day

Snow removal crews worked through the night to clear all main roads and bus routes and will continue throughout this Valentine's Day to clear sidewalks and neighbourhood streets. While the accumulation of overnight snow was not significant high winds will cause drifting in some spots.

Environment Canada has issued a snow squall warning for the area, which will mean more snow accumulation, drifting snow and poor visibility. Motorists are reminded to take it slowly and to look out for pedestrians. Londoners navigating city streets on foot should bundle up against wind chill temperatures of minus 29 C.
